A Message from the President

DoorDash Data Breach: Affecting more than 4.9 million user accounts.

On September 26, 2019, DoorDash announced on their blog that a third party had gained unauthorized access to some of their user account data on May 14, 2019. Any users that joined DoorDash on or before April 5, 2018 were potentially compromised.

According to DoorDash, the following data was involved in this event:

- Customer profile information including names, email addresses, etc.
- For some consumers, the last four digits of consumer payment cards.
- For some delivery contractors (“Dashers”) and merchants, the last four digits of their bank account number.
- The driver’s license numbers for approximately 100,000 delivery contractors were also accessed.

DoorDash has stated that the vulnerabilities that led to this breach have been addressed and secured. It is important to note that full card numbers do not appear to have been compromised. However, with the large amount of personally identifiable data that was accessed in combination with the last four digits of the card number, this breach could potentially be a rich source of data for fraudsters to cross-reference when attempting account take-over and subsequent fraud.

Protect yourself with the Card Valet app.

Space City CU provides an app that allows you to track your VISA debit card right from your phone. Card Valet can manage and track specific types of debit transactions – or quickly detect unauthorized or fraudulent activity.

Alerts can be set up to keep you informed of specific types of debit and credit card transactions. Card

Valet can send an alert when a card is used or when a card transaction has been attempted but is declined – and additional customizable alert options are available. The alert is sent in real time, immediately after the transaction has taken place or has been declined.
